DATA INCIDENT

On 4 February 2019, LandMark White Limited (ASX: LMW) became aware through one of its corporate partners, CoreLogic that a dataset containing property valuation and some personal contact information has been disclosed.

We take the privacy and security of our data very seriously, and we are working closely with Cyber Security consultants to investigate the circumstances of the disclosure of the dataset.

We have taken immediate steps to secure what we believe to be the source of the disclosure to prevent any further disclosure of data. Currently there is no evidence of misuse of any information although this remains under close review.

We are in the process of directly notifying our affected corporate partners of the incident to let them know that we are taking steps to investigate and prevent any potential misuse of information. As required, we will also be notifying law enforcement bodies, the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner, and the Australian Stock Exchange, all of whom we intend to fully co-operate with in respect of this incident.

Pending the outcome of our investigations, we may need to notify individuals affected by this incident to let them know what information may have been accessed and what steps they can take to prevent any potential misuse of their information. We continue to keep this under close review in compliance with our privacy obligations.

As part of our response, we have established a dedicated email mailbox (privacy@lmw.com.au) to respond to questions about this incident and will be creating a dedicated FAQ web page (www.lmw.com.au/faqs) which we will update as more information becomes known.

We sincerely apologise for any concern that this may cause and appreciate your patience while we continue to investigate this incident.
