Ainsworth Game Technology Limited Market Update

(ASX Code: AGI)

Ainsworth Game Technology Limited (AGT), an Australian-based gaming machine manufacturer, today announced the Company is making substantial progress in the international gaming machine market.

Executive Chairman Mr Len Ainsworth commenting from the Global Gaming Expo in Las Vegas Nevada where the company is exhibiting said, "significant progress had been achieved in the Company's international expansion and there were great opportunities for our innovative products globally."

Following a recent marketing trip with Ainsworth's Chief Operating Officer, Mr Hans Zeidler, a further substantial order had now been received for the European market.

Mr Zeidler commented "this single order meets the full annual forecast for FY04 for the region and underlines the extent of future opportunities for the Company from this area. Delivery will occur over the next three months and further supports AGT's investment plans to expand and rationalise its manufacturing capabilities."
